University of Rochester

1/2015 - 5/2016 Research Assistant, Kessler Ocean Biogeochemistry GroupSenior thesis: determined the spatial distribution and magnitude of sea-to-air methane flux in the Gulf of Mexico. Localized areas of highly elevated flux were detected, suggesting that the ocean may be a greater natural source of methane to the atmosphere than previously thought.1/2015 - 5/2015 Research Assistant, Ebinger Active Tectonics and Geophysics Research Group

Aggregated seismic refraction/reflection transects in Appalachia to help determine regional earthquake risk.

Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution

Woods Hole, MA

5/2015 - 8/2015 Summer Student Fellow, Wankel Stable Isotope Biogeochemistry Group

Received NSF Research Experience for Undergraduates fellowship. Investigated the impact of Fe(II) on the isotope dynamics of nitrite and nitrous oxide during simultaneous denitrification and chemodenitrification in anaerobic estuarine sediment incubations.
